SECOND DAY'S HEARING IN PAGE WILL CASE

Neighbors, Employees and Physician
Testify that Mrs. Page Was Addicted to Drink—Suspicious, and Had Poor Memory.

At the second day's hearing of the Margaret Page will case, John M. Palmer of Windham resumed his testimony Wednesday morning. The witness stated that he thought Mrs. Page was easily influenced and gave his reason for thinking this as Mrs. Page's love of liquor. He had known the Pages for some time, and although he had seen Mrs. Page drink but once he knew that it was her habit to drink. The woman had come over to his house while his but a short way from the Page home and had acted simple and silly while there. The witness thought that she was more easily influenced in the latter part of her life. Mr. Palmer told of going to the funeral of Mr. Page on which day Mrs. Page was so intoxicated it took three men to get her into the carriage.

Cross-examined on this last statement, the witness stated that she appeared to be under the influence of liquor as she did not know anybody.

George Rood's Testimony.
George Rood, a farmer of Windham, residing near the Page home told what he knew of Mrs. Page. He stated that his brother had done most of the team work for her after the death of her husband. During the time that the witness worked for Mrs. Page the latter would drink a great deal during the day and sometimes during the night she would call for more liquor. She would drink a quart and as much more as she could get a day and a number of times she had taken a water glass full at a time. The witness told of Mrs. Page's desire to be bathed with alcohol and when no one was looking the latter would drink some of this. In addition to the drinking habit, the woman took some kind of pills or tablets which made her sleepy. At this time Mrs. Page was unable to help herself and the witness had to wash her face and hands and take care of her as she would a child. She had a very poor memory, as she would hide her money, forgetting where she had put it and then she would accuse someone of stealing it from her.

Dr. L. T. Mason on the Stand.
After a short recess, Dr. L. T. Mason of this city was called to the stand as he had attended Mrs. Page at her home in Windham. He told of treating Mrs. Page as the result of a fall she had taken and of her removal from her home to his hospital in this city. At the time she was brought to the hospital she was suffering from too much whiskey and after being there she was furnished with the liquor by her husband who made visits to her. While there she suffered from tremors and was a very troublesome patient, making numerous complaints of her clothes being stolen. She could not remember anything and the witness was of the opinion that she was of unsound mind.

Given Pills to Quiet Her.
On cross-examination, Dr. Mason testified to giving the woman pills to quiet her and to giving her medicine for her indigestion. When she left the hospital she was in a nervous and shaky state and the doctor advised her as to the use of intoxicating liquors. Witness stated that the injury to her wrist did not affect the use of her arm or forearm and that her mental state could not be said to be a dangerous process which she underwent, although it was painful.

Mrs. Lynch Recalled.
Mrs. Lynch then resumed her testimony and told of inability of Mrs. Page to remember anything and of getting a quart of whiskey a day for her. The witness stated that Mrs. Page often spoke to her of her children and of Mrs. Keating of whom she (Mrs. Page) was very fond. Mrs. Lynch told of writing letters for Mrs. Page at the latter's request and of the jealous disposition of Mrs. Page before the death of Mr. Page. This jealousy was without cause, stated the witness.

Drank Whiskey and Alcohol.
On cross-examination, witness stated that Mrs. Page was unreasonable, senseless and of unsound mind and that she never drank anything but whiskey. The letters in question were written at the request of Mrs. Page but not at her dictation as the latter house, staggering about. From what he had spoken to her on the veranda of her home the witness was convinced that she was unable to carry on a conversation or to transact any business. The woman acted crazy and had the tremens, was of unsound mind and was easily influenced, in the opinion of the witness, who stated that she would side in with anyone, whether right or wrong.

Had Smelled Her Breath.
On cross-examination Rood stated that in his opinion the woman could have gotten along without any crutches if she had let liquor alone. He had never seen her drink but had smelled it on her breath, he said.

On re-direct examination, he said that he had never seen the woman walk after the time she was injured in a fall. He stated that he had seen her come to the house every few days after the death of Mr. Page and he told of the times the housekeeper for Mrs. Page came to his house and telephoned for the sisters to come to the Page home. Miss Day was the one who came to his house to do the telephoning.

Testimony of Mrs. John Lynch.
Mrs. John Lynch of Windham, who had worked at the Page home, was the next witness. She told of the four different occasions she was employed at the home. Mrs. Lynch had known Mrs. Page about twenty-five years and she knew of the liquor habit which the latter had acquired. She said that the first time she knew the woman drank was when the witness was employed at the Inn when Mrs. Page came to her one night and asked her to fill a bottle which she had hidden in the house. During the time that the witness worked for Mrs. Page the latter would drink a great deal during the day and sometimes during the night she would call for more liquor. She would drink a quart and as much more as she could get a day and a number of times she had taken a water glass full at a time. The witness told of Mrs. Page's desire to be bathed with alcohol and when no one was looking the latter would drink some of this. In addition to the drinking habit, the woman took some kind of pills or tablets which made her sleepy. At this time Mrs. Page was unable to help herself and the witness had to wash her face and hands and take care of her as she would a child. She had a very poor memory, as she would hide her money, forgetting where she had put it and then she would accuse someone of stealing it from her.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headaches, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should take a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone's prospect of a frank on the subject of internal sanitation.

SKIN TROUBLE?
If you have a friend suffering with eczema or some such itching, burning condition what greater kindness could you do him than to say:
"Why don't you try Resinol Ointment? I know you have experienced with eczema but I believe Resinol is different. In the first place doctors have prescribed it for years. And then, Resinol does not claim to be a 'cure-all' simply a soothing, healing dressing, free from all harsh drugs that USUALLY proves successful in just such cases as yours."
Resinol Ointment is sold by all druggists. For free sample, write to Dept. 58-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

APPEALS SENTENCE
Joseph Bock before City Court on Charge of Intoxication and Assault
Joseph Bock was before the police court Wednesday morning on the charges of intoxication and assault on his wife. The accused entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of assault but admitted having some liquor although he stated that he was not under the influence of what he had taken. Mrs. Bock, who made the complaint, was in court and she showed signs of being in a tussle recently. Her mouth was swollen so she could hardly speak and a number of her teeth were loosened. She stated that her husband had recently lost his job and that there were five children to look after. Tuesday evening she went looking for her husband whom she found in a saloon in Sudum and he became angered at her and struck her.

The accused stated that he was out with a man who had promised to get him a job and he wanted to stay with him rather than go home to his wife. He was sure that he did not strike his wife in the face but he admitted that he might have kicked her. After hearing the story of the accused the court imposed a fine of one dollar and costs for the intoxication charge and a sentence of thirty days in jail on the charge of assault. The accused gave notice of an appeal from the sentence and a bond of $100 was fixed.
